“ Clay's great intellect was balanced by an equally great compassion. I was a recipient of his compassion. When I struggled with life years ago he wrote me time after time urging me to take responsibility for my life and take action. I did take action thanks to his help. If I hadn't known Clay my life would have been what it was. I will be forever grateful and thankful, missing him until my end.

“ Clay introduced me to spirituality beyond what I had encountered. He took an interest in my studies and my future. He would check on me periodically to see where I was both intellectually and spiritually. He gave me the greatest affirmation I could receive after choosing to become a chaplain--he said that the best life lived is the one spent helping others. Clay holds a deep significance in my life and in the journey of my becoming. His life was a gift given to others, a gift given to me. He is a gift given to my dear friend, Randall. He will live on in our prayers, our hearts, our journeys. He is missed and loved.
