“ I have many wonderful memories of my Uncle Shunk. One I remember well. My daddy, his brother, had gone to the country to feed his cows. It was getting late and he wasn't home. It had come a flood. My twin sister and I were so upset. Everything was going through our mind. My sweet Uncle drove us to the country to look for daddy. We waded in front of his pickup to feel for washed out bridges with his headlights on. He was so sweet to us. Daddy had had to come the long way round as bridges were washed out. A happy ending. Know they are having a wonderful reunion in heaven. Can't wait to see them all again. Marla Jackson Bowland
