“ As so many have said, you can't say a few words about Shirlene. She cared so much for every child and teacher who ever walked through the doors of the middle school. We were a close knit group who cared deeply for one another. We shared happy times, sad times, frustrating times and every other emotion during our years together at school. We leaned on one another. I didn't start or end a day without a chat with Shirlene. It was never a burden to go to work with the people we had -- we laughed a lot, we cried occasionally, and we accomplished an amazing amount of work. Through it all, Shirlene was one of our leaders. She was smart, she was caring, she was faithful, she was amazing, and she was a friend to all. There will be a great hole in the hearts of the whole town. She loved her children and their families with her whole being. It is so fitting that you are starting a scholarship honoring your parents because they loved teaching, they loved children, and they loved Jacksboro. No one can replace her in any of our hearts.

“ It is difficult to say in a few short words what an impact this lady had on my life, as well as on the lives of my two sons. I was honored to have Mrs. Hicks as my 7th grade reading teacher. Being nestled in her classroom, listening to her narrations of Laura Ingalls Wilder’s Little House on the Prairie, as well other classic literature, is a memory I will forever treasure. Mrs. Hicks was and will always be the educator and person whom every teacher aspires to be. She instilled in our middle school students the sense of honor, duty and respect to our veterans. Any middle school student who ever participated in a Veteran’s Day program will agree that Mrs. Hicks tirelessly worked for years to honor our veterans and their families. Her creativity, patience and quiet demeanor were virtues that served everyone well. Not noting her amazing love of family would be a disservice to her. She proudly cheered at the various athletic events of her children, grandchildren and even the classmates of her grandchildren. She will forever be in our hearts. Jacksboro, JISD, the Jacksboro Tigers and Tigerettes have all lost one of their biggest fans..... but I’m thinking she will continue to root for them in heaven!
